

Caroline Richard

Caroline Richard is an Associate with the firm Freshfields, Bruckhaus, Deringer in Washington, DC. Caroline is a member of their International Arbitration Group. She has represented corporate clients in several international commercial and investor-state arbitrations, under the auspices of the International Centre for the Settlement of Investment Disputes (ICSID), United Nations Commission on International Trade Law (UNCITRAL), and the International Chamber of Commerce (ICC). She has acted in disputes in the energy, mining, infrastructure and telecommunications sectors, in Latin America, Central Asia and the Middle East. Recent experience includes: representing several energy companies in arbitrations arising from economic emergency measures taken by the Government of Argentina in 2002; representing telecommunications companies in investment arbitrations against the Republic of Yemen; advising mining and energy companies regarding adverse measures taken by the Governments of Bolivia, Ecuador and Venezuela.

Prior to joining Freshfields, Bruckhaus, Deringer at their Washington D.C. office, Caroline was part of the International Arbitration Group in the firm's London and Paris offices.

Languages

English
French
Spanish

Education

LLM Harvard Law School, 2006
LLM Cambridge University, 2004
LLB DESS Université de Montréal, 2003

Areas of Practice

Dispute resolution