Get on the right path to an arbitration and mediation practice

So you are interested in arbitration and mediation practice. Whether you want to be a better advocate in arbitration and mediation, or you aspire to become an arbitrator or mediator some day, now is the time to put the building blocks in place. Sit down with leading practitioners, arbitrators and mediators who will answer all your questions in an informal dinner setting... How can I develop my skills? How is preparing for arbitration different from preparing for a trial? What do arbitrators and mediators look for in young lawyers appearing before them? How can I manage costs when clients expect arbitration to be cheaper? How can I develop a comfort level in arbitration without the rules of court? How do I develop credibility and profile in this field?

Specially designed for junior lawyers, this casual and intimate event brings you face to face with trusted mentors. Ask tough questions and get objective answers that will help you build your career and your confidence. Our popular speed mentoring format lets you meet a variety of mentors, grab top tips and make new and lasting connections along the way. Spaces are limited.

Mentors include:
